THE EAR

DALLAS REVISITED . . .

Brace for a nasty scrap,
now. Wicked wee Washingtonian's being sued for 70 million clams. It's over that big Who.

Killed JFK piece last November.
Doing the suing: David Phillips, the retired CIA man. The Washingtonian piece, remember, hinted something odd about David's role in the whole biz. (Ear, of course, would never breathe a word.
But remember the name
"Maurice Bishop?") Poor darling David wants 15 mill in compensatory damages; 20 mill in punitive damages for libel; and another 35 mill for invasion of privacy. He's filed in Montgomery County Circuit Court. This is one to watch.
Earwigs. Retired CIAers are ladling megabucks in a fund for Phillips' side. Insiders moan that it'll be long and mean, and could turn into a public airing of a lot of Kennedy Assassination inside poop that the CIA's tucked away. Oh, Lord.
Here we go again.
